

Enhancing Leadership Practice, Performance and Wellbeing

The brain drives every aspect of our behaviour and, through its relationship with mind and body, influences and impacts all we think and all we do. Over the last two decades we have deepened our understanding and knowledge, particularly around emotion, memory, decision-making, thinking capacity, biases and relationship.

"If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs..."
...you'll be a Neuroleader.

Learn how to flourish in a changing world.

The Neuroleader Academy Programme is founded on expertise drawn from the behavioural sciences, neuroscience, organisational change and leadership development. It has been specifically designed for managers/leaders and aspiring leaders who want to improve their performance as well as develop authentic leadership capability. The programme delivers many practical benefits including the ability to:

- ◆ Understand how the brain works and what this means for performance
- ◆ Develop knowledge and insight to focus, take better decisions and move to creation mode
- ◆ Access practical tools and techniques that can be applied day-to-day
- ◆ Build productive relationships and create healthy fulfilling work environments

Engage Whole Self is an online learning module, which can be accessed on a 'stand-alone' basis or as the foundational module within Minerva's four-module Neuroleader Academy Programme.

Engage Whole Self is a six-week study module (3/3.5 hours per week) designed to support the development of mental and physical wellbeing. The module will deepen knowledge of brain, body and mind, develop understanding of how and why maintaining balance is important and lay the foundations for developing tools and techniques to maintain and sharpen performance.

Engage Whole Self comprises a 'context' zone, where we explore what makes a Neuroleader, plus four additional learning zones:

1. The whole self
2. Our internal communication system
3. Two thinking processes
4. Organisation basics

During the module we will explore and understand more about:

- ◆ The structures, components and functions of the brain
- ◆ The relationship between brain, mind and body
- ◆ The relevance of social connection
- ◆ Our internal communication system and how we activate threat/reward responses
- ◆ How to get the best from our thinking processes

What is included:

- ◆ Video-based course learning materials
- ◆ Four study calls (booked at course start)
- ◆ Downloadable exercises, models and additional resource materials for practical application
- ◆ On-line self-assessment links (where appropriate)
- ◆ Interactive discussion groups
- ◆ Reflection points
- ◆ End of module assignment

Accreditation and assessment

To receive accreditation for the module, it is important to complete all compulsory activity. This includes:

- ◆ Completion of all module materials
- ◆ Completion and 'Pass' x 5 reflection points
- ◆ Active participation (x1 comment and x 1 reply to comment) with x 5 Discussion Group activities
- ◆ Attendance of and contribution to four study calls (or submission of relevant zone learning summary)
- ◆ Completion and 'Pass' of end of module assignment

* Costs are per person to participate in the module in an open learning environment. This can also be undertaken as an in-house leadership development training programme. Please ask for details of our corporate rates.
